WHAT. WHERE. HOW.

What is AAPAC?

The Ann Arbor Parent Advisory Committee for Special Education (AAPAC) is a group of parents whose focus is on supporting children in AAPS who have IEP's or 504 Plans.

Our exec board and individual building reps provide parents with a helping hand to go to anytime with questions.

Where do we meet?

AAPAC meets monthly during the regular school year to share ideas and to collaborate with district administrators about important issues and concerns for students with special needs and diverse abilities. We also share resources through our workshops fall kick-off meeting, and online forums.

Q&A

What can AAPAC do for me?
